Perimeter protection

EVITECH's Jaguar® video analytics solution is deployed on sites managing huge highly valuable financial items in France. Perimeter protection is installed to protect cash and value paper manufacturing and logistics.

Issue : Financial sector actors are facing new threats both on production and on logistic sites, but are even more sensitive on budget matters than industrial actors. They are thus looking to renew or increase their perimeter protection, because it's too old or does not fulfils current regulatory requirements.

Solution : Depending on site illumination level, traditional cameras (Day/Night if necessary) or thermal ones are installed, whether as a complete or partial virtual fence (one camera behind previous one), or from the main buildings (looking toward the fences) when it's inconvenient or budget inefficient to deploy masts all around. The cameras are connected to Jaguar monitoring units. Due to its exceptional sensitivity, which makes it possible to detect a change as small as one pixel in thermal images, and just a few ones on visible images, Jaguar could then detect all potential intrusion as well as loitering around the sites.

Tests : Tests are usually handled after system set-up by cooperation between EVITECH's technical team, the integrator and the site security officer who is of course the best informed of security threats on his site.

Remarks : Main reasons for deployments of JAGUAR in these sites is not only linked to performance requirement, but also to financial constraints as for many sites having perimeter protection, it is now cheaper to deploy JAGUAR with thermal cameras than classical infrared barriers for example, and for a level of performance much higher.
